We cannot conduct orals.

There are no facilities for practical tests to be carried out at the College

If you are taking exams which include as part of the Subject/Syllabus any of the above you must make your own arrangements as Highlands College will not be held responsible for the non-completion of the Subject/Syllabus due to missing modules. It is the responsibility of the candidate to give the Examinations Office all the correct details of the modules and subject codes when completing your Entry Form, it is not the responsibility of the college to enter you for missing Subject Codes etc.

Please advise us if you are having a private tutor, and when appropriate, you must complete and return all relevant private candidate Exam Board forms with your coursework.

We cannot accept entry forms if you are having private tuition or will have coursework marked by tutors currently teaching at Highlands College.

There are various websites that you can visit which can offer home study courses and give advice & support for distance learning, i.e. the National Extension College (<http://www.nec.ac.uk>).
